When Signicast had concerns over the costs of expanding on an adjoining 53 acre parcel, they started to look at sites in other communities. Wondra Construction was contacted by the Hartford Area Development Corporation to get involved in the project. Wondra was able to take a project site requiring heavy grading work and keep the project in the local community, keeping 500 new jobs in Hartford. Using detailed phasing and construction plans, one million dollars was saved from the construction budget for site and foundation work.
